THE selection of hardy plants listed in this catalogue and grown by us is one of the largest to be found in any nursery in this country.

Our fields in Weston and Hopkinton are stocked with the finest plants we have ever offered. Almost every variety is listed in several sizes, so an ideal planting of the proper plant materials is within the reach of every home-owner.

Recent Weston Nurseries introductions of note, listed in this book, are two perennials: Chrysanthemum maximum Victor, a mammoth flowering Shasta Daisy, and Phlox paniculata Weston, a white phlox of exceptional qualities.

Our newest introduction is a superior hemlock, Tsuga canadensis Westonigra. We have been increasing our stock of this hemlock for a number of years. Its fast growth and beautiful waxy, deep green foliage make it the finest hemlock we have ever seen.

Evergreens

The growing of evergreens is a large part of our industry. At our nurseries we take particular pride in the proper methods of evergreen culture. Our fields are irrigated frequently during the summer months, and the plants are sprayed, fertilized, pruned and transplanted regularly. The results of these efforts are good vigorous, hardy trees, in every size and variety, to fill all landscape needs.

EVERGREEN GROUND COVERS

Almost every home has a spot of ground that could benefit by the use of ground covers.

SHADE, either from trees or buildings, brings lawn problems, but such lawns are a natural habitat for Pachysandra, Vinca, Ivy, Euonymus or Dwarfed or Spreading Yew. Many hours of hand trimming of grass grown up to the foundation of a building can be saved by planting a bed of one of these plants in that hard-to-maintain spot. For the shady slope, any of the plants mentioned above are recommended.

Banks and inclines that do not readily accommodate themselves to grass can be made attractive by the proper use of an evergreen ground cover.

SUNNY OR DRY exposures suggest the use of Bearberry or Hybrid Juniper, such as the Douglas, Sargent, Andorra or Pfitzer Juniper, depending on the size of banking and the color of foliage desired. The rockery can be made distinctive with evergreen accents, particularly as edgings and enclosures.

Stone and flagstone terraces and walks interplanted with Thyme or Sedum give color, fragrance and utility to an otherwise functional piece of architecture.

The problem of cultivation under low-branched trees and evergreens and broad-leaved evergreen shrubs is solved attractively by a ground cover that will not only be easy to maintain and look well, but will also keep the ground cool. These plants are all quite shallow-rooted and, rather than hinder the growth of plants above them, serve as a cultural benefit.

Evergreen ground covers are a great source of beauty and satisfaction. However, they need good soil and care for several years until they are well established.

Broad-Leaved Evergreen Shrubs

This popular group of plants includes many of our favorite native shrubs, such as Mountainlaurel Kalmia, Rhododendrons, Holly and others native to the hilly sections of this and other countries.

Our New England climate and soil are particularly favorable to the growing of Broad-leaved Evergreens. The flowers and foliage of these plants are very attractive, and their culture is simple. Of all the plant groups listed in this catalogue, this one requires the least care, and perhaps is the most rewarding to the garden lover.

Many acres of our Hopkinton farm are planted with Broad-leaved Evergreens, and we honestly believe that our plants are the finest that have ever been grown in New England.

Deciduous Shade and Ornamental Trees

We grow a large number of shade and ornamental trees, as indicated by the following pages.

Good root systems and healthy well-pruned tops combine to make our trees desirable for ease in transplanting and after care.

Of particular interest to the small home-owner should be the flowering trees that require little care, and offer flowers, fruit, beautiful foliage and shade. We recommend Dogwoods, Magnolias, Flowering Crabs and Cherries as being particularly useful and ornamental on the small home grounds.

Flowering Crabapples

Enthusiasm is difficult to restrain when Crabapples are in bloom. The dainty pastel shading of the airy flowers, the brilliant coloring of the fruits, the intricate cross-branching habits, all serve to set them apart as worthy of a place in almost every planting. Many make fine jellies, and many provide food for the birds.

We grow our Crabapples both for specimen plants and for screening purposes, the latter being low-branched and in shrub form.

Perennials and Rock Garden Plants

During the past twenty-five years we have given particular attention to the growing of hardy perennials, and during these years we have tried and tested hundreds of varieties, both old and new. We have found that the plants in the following list are best suited for our New England gardens.

Our perennial gardens are adjacent to the office and parking area, and our customers take great delight in periodic visits to the nursery throughout the growing season to view the succession of blooms. A large number, in this way, discover their preferences and personally select their plants.

Our plants are field-grown, and consequently have vigorous root systems, which assure successful transplanting.

The plants are 50c. each, 3 of one variety $1.35, 10 of one variety $3.50, unless otherwise marked. 5 or more of one variety may be purchased at the 10 rate.

The asterisk (*) indicates varieties particularly well adapted for the Rock Garden.

The ultimate height of the plant is given in feet and inches.

The approximate time of flowering is given in months.

Hardy Chrysanthemums

We believe the chrysanthemum offers to home gardens more real flower value than any other plant.

We recommend planting chrysanthemums during the early part of the summer, rather than waiting until they are in bloom. The plants develop and flower better if they are planted before the flower buds develop, and they become better established to survive the winter. Once in the garden proper they can be pinched back, staked, fertilized and watered, to suit the garden in which they will display their beauty during the long autumn season.
